

New Transportation Ecosystem

Since our last company announcement in June, we've been delayed by COVID-19. Even with delays, we are still making progress on several important fronts: system design; outreach to our development partners; expansion of our patents; and updating of our records and accounting by our compliance team.

"The pandemic has seriously impacted many small businesses. We are not immuned to its impact but we are making progress towards our goal of creating a world class digital transportation ecosystem and we plan on making several important announcements next month," stated Tribal Rides CEO, Joseph Grimes.

Patents: We are actively expanding our patent portfolio by applying for three patent extensions as well starting discussions for the acquisition of new Mapping Patents. We believe these patents and our Intellectual Property (IP) are critical for protecting and promoting our vision and system designs in this exciting, evolving transportation market.

Compliance: Although we've experienced a few temporary set-backs and delays, our compliance team has re-engaged on becoming fully reporting, including updating our records, accounting, and audits.

Marketing: We are reviewing some new marketing campaigns utilizing video and social programs, which may be released as soon as next month.

Also... look to these announcements for very exciting news that we'll be sharing with all our subscribers in the upcoming months.

Please stay safe and healthy and visit our newly revised website!

For more details, visit www.tribalrides.us

Sincerely,
Joseph Grimes
CEO, Tribal Rides, Inc.